Frank Tulle, a farmer residing near Rosedale, six miles south of Salem, drove into the city this morning with 10 of the finest looking brook trout seen here for some time. Mr. Tulle caught them in Battle Creek, and he states that there were no Mexicans about, either. The angler states that rain and muddy water makes no difference with fishing in his neighborhood, and that he caught the 10 beauties this morning before breakfast.

Federal Judge Wolverton, of Portland, yesterday issued an order for Governor West, Attorney General Crawford, Corporation Commissioner Watson and District Attorney Evans to appear before him in the United States district court at 10 o'clock Tuesday to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued against their attempting to enforce the act known as "The Blue Sky Law."

Attorney General Crawford this morning told K. Lively of the firm of McCarrigan, Bates & Lively, an insurance brokerage firm of Portland, that an employer could not insure himself against liability or damages he might incur by reason of his failure to obey the law requiring the proper safeguarding of his employees. Such insurance would be against public policy.

Governor West this morning commenting on Engineer Lewis' statements concerning the engineer's office, said Mr. Lewis was mistaken as to his, the governor's intent, which was not to abolish the revenues of the office, but by cutting out the engineer, turning the business of the office over to the clerk, and cutting out dead and useless timber to increase or at least conserve the revenues of the office. He said he would do all in his power to increase the revenues of the office as well as trying to prevent waste after the revenues were collected.

Lee Page, the foreman of the bottling works at the Salem Brewery Association, came near being put out of commission entirely yesterday afternoon, when he accidentally grasped an electric wire carrying 220 volts. Mr. Page was inspecting a motor and accidentally touched the wire in a place where it was not insulated. The foreman was hurled backward and his hand blistered. Yesterday's accident made the third which Mr. Page has received and he states that he is getting about enough of the electric treatment.

Chief of Police Smedeck announced this morning that he had taken Patrolman Fisher off the beat at the South Pacific passenger depot, and placed him on the regular city beat. The chief states that, while the depot beat is a most important one, and one which should be covered by all means, he finds it impossible to patrol the city with but one man which he would have to do, since the council has reduced the force to four. Hereafter Patrolmen White and Fisher will work in the business district, and the chief and Officer Gaines will take the day work.

Salem bears the distinction of having the only Mexican war veteran in Marion county, and one of the few in the whole state now. He is Uncle Billy Brown, known by every one in the city. Uncle Billy crossed the plains in 1846, and was among the nine out of a hundred volunteers who offered to take up arms against the Mexicans, the other 91 declining. The old veteran states that the Mexicans were not so well armed as they are now, nor did the Americans have the best of arms, but, despite this fact, there was fighting, and, as Uncle Billy puts it, "some damned hot scraps, at that." Mr. Brown is nearing 90, and states that if he were a few years younger he would tackle 'em again.

George M. Hyland, of the department of publicity and exploitation of the Oregon commission for the Panama proposition of making a relief map of San Francisco, communicated with Fred S. Byrum, secretary of the promotion department of the Salem commercial club, this morning regarding the proposition of making a relief map of the State of Oregon for the exposition. The plan of this map is to show the material waterways, the railroads, the steamship lines, and the towns. The Oregon commission offers to give $1000 for this purpose. To remainder is to be raised by the counties participating. It is estimated that the cost per county would be about $35. At the close of the exhibition each county would get a part of the map relating to its territory.

There are several young Salem men going about today with lame shoulders and backs. Reasons therefor is that they buckled in last night and made the sawdust fly from the lumber which is being used for booths and rooms for the Cherringo society circus, which opens tomorrow morning in the armory on Ferry street. The spacious armory building is fitted up just like a big circus—with all the side show attachments. Wild men, freak animals and bugs, a saloon and dance hall, a noodle joint, strong men and about every other feature known to the circus world will be seen at the Cherringo. The managers of the affair state that everybody is going to have a bang-up time, and there will be more fun than a cargo of monkeys when the doors are thrown open tomorrow morning. The Browning Amusement Co. has set up its merry-go-round and Ferris wheel on Liberty street, near the armory, and everything will be in readiness on the dot.

Bybee, the fish and poultry dealer on South Commercial street, received a shipment of halibut this morning, and in the lot was one fish that tipped the scales at 171 pounds. Some wild-eyed members of the Salem militia were seen this morning standing in front of the armory on Ferry street. The reason for the excitement was a dry load of coffins which have in sight around the corner of the Hotel Marion and traveled toward the militia headquarters. "Gosh, are they making preparation for us all ready?" said one of the militiamen. The coffins did not stop at the armory, however, and the driver of the dry load looked rather indignant upon noting the stares he was receiving from the soldier lads.

SALEM ELKS GATHERING

ABOUT 350 MEMBERS OF LODGE TO BE HERE FOR RANNUAL HOME-COMING.

Today is the annual home-coming for the Salem Elks. There will be in the neighborhood of 350 members of the antlered herd congregated in this city this evening to take part in the special festival which is being prepared by the local Elks.

Home-coming day with lodge No. 330 E. P. O. E., is one of the most important events of each year. Brothers from far and near answer the call, and the age and youth intermingling, with the same spirit, when the annual message goes out. Salem Elks who have departed for other climes and who are no longer familiar figures in the local lodge will be seen around the festive board tonight. Among these will be John Knight, ex-sheriff of Marion county and the first exalted ruler of the Salem Elks. Louis Steinhilber, a former Salemite, but now a resident of Pendleton, will be on hand to entertain the boys with his unlimited supply of cleverly arranged stunts, while many of the members from other outside towns and cities will appear and take part in the entertainment which the Capital City lodge holds each year with the utmost regularity.

A boxing match, and one which promises to be the most exciting ever pulled off in the city has been fully arranged, and several good wrestling bouts will appear on the program this evening. Special music, string, brass and vocal, will be in abundance, and some professional actors have been engaged to stage several acts, which are assured to be high class in every respect.

SAYS PRUNES ARE HURT

FRUIT INSPECTOR ESTIMATES DAMAGES BY RECENT FROSTS AT $500,000.

That the damage to the prune crop within a radius of 15 miles of Salem will reach $500,000 is estimated by prune men today, as the result of investigations of orchards since the last cold and rainy season of weather. From a personal investigation of several orchards County Fruit Inspector C. O. Constable declares that the loss would reach $300,000. From the reports of the continual dropping of prunes brought in to the Salem Fruit Union this morning, Robert Paulus, secretary of the union, stated he believed the loss would be fully half a million. It was his opinion that if the cold, wet weather continues, the loss will probably reach three-fourths of a million.

Mr. Paulus declared this afternoon that the union had 1500 acres contracted for, but that if the prunes continue to drop off on the ground the crop will be miserably small. What is needed just at present is clear, warm weather, in order to save what remains of the 1914 crop. The rain for the most part prevented pollicization of the fruit.

WEST WILL ENLIST

ernor West, Adjutant-General Finzer or himself. There are one or two troops in the state, and Lieutenant Hennessey thinks it will be an easy matter to organize 10 or 11—more, which would make up a regiment of about 1100 men.

"I know of no state," declared the Lieutenant, "where a more proficient regiment could be organized. There are hundreds of young men in Oregon who are naturally fitted for cavalry service, and, with a little training, would make a capital regiment. Troops should be organized in such places as Portland, Pendleton, Klamath Falls, The Dalles and other of the larger cities. They could be mobilized at a convenient point and drilled thoroughly before the equipment arrived.

"I would advise young men having horses who desire entering the service to begin training the animals at once. It is up to each member to furnish his horse at the start, but the Government will pay for all horses accepted if the regiment is called into service."

While Lieutenant Hennessey had nothing to say on the subject it is known that students of the Oregon Agricultural College contemplate organizing at least one troop. He said that each community which furnished a troop will be provided with a Government officer to train it before the mobilizing of the regiment.

Senator Chamberlain telegraphed Governor West tonight that it probably would be impossible to have the Coast Artillery transferred into infantry service, explaining that the War Department desired to retain it for coast defense. He said, however, that under a volunteer bill, which probably would be passed, it could be converted into infantry.

across the line, are throwing up trenches, and Captain Condon announced that all women and children will probably be ordered out of that village today.

The American flag over the San Ysidro school house was taken down today, following a fist fight between trustees, who were divided over its removal. Some feared the Mexicans would fire the school house if the flag remained. County Superintendent Baldwin issued orders today that the flag must remain as long as the school is in session.

Captain Page, in command of the United States troops at Tecate, this county, reported today that the Mexicans had evacuated Tecate, Mexico.

It is believed the troops are marching Tijuana, to join the forces there.

Use Funds at Once.

Washington, April 23.—The house naval committee planned today to make the appropriation of $142,000, 000 in the annual naval bill available immediately. Republicans and Democrats were agreed regarding this unusual step. Otherwise the money would not be available until June 1.

Orders Are Expected.

Washington, April 23.—Orders were momentarily expected today for naval operations on large scale all along both Mexican coasts, whether those of sections under federal or rebel control.

It was considered certain there would be landings at many points to protect foreign interests.

Instructions were said to have been given to officers on border patrol duty to hold up shipments of arms and ammunition into rebel territory.

Major-General Wood convened the army general staff late this forenoon. It was believed they were considering orders for a general army movement towards Mexico, and that the orders would soon be announced.

Their passports were sent by the state department this afternoon to Mexican Charge d'Affaires Alagon and the two other attaches of the Mexican ambas-

Refugees Are Fleeting.
A cable received by the navy department this afternoon from Admiral Badger, of the American fleet at Vera Cruz, said:

"By the courtesy and energy of the captains of German and British cruisers, 1200 American refugees are now aboard ships in this harbor."
Every effort was being made today to get foreigners, and especially Americans, out of Mexico as rapidly as possible. Consuls were ordered to spare no expense to expedite matters. The greatest fears were felt for the foreign residents along the route of the big oil concessions between Monterrey and Tampico. Admiral Mayo, at Tampico, was fully authorized to take whatever steps seemed necessary.
